

The collection of blocks at the museum is Mr. Suraj's family heirloom that he inherited from his grandfather and father. The fabrics, natural dyes and other objects in the collection have either been produced at their own workshop or belongs to Mr. Suraj himself. Nothing has been acquired externally.